BRUNO MARS

Concert Rio de Janeiro 3 days / October 19th - 21st

Peter Gene Hernández (Honolulu, October 8, 1985), known artistically as Bruno Mars, is an American singer, songwriter, music producer and dancer.

He began creating music from a very early age and performed on many stages in his hometown throughout his childhood, performing imitations. He graduated from high school and moved to Los Angeles, where he continued his music career.

His music is characterized by showing a wide range of styles and influences from various musical genres. He worked with great artists of different genres and those experiences, Mars acknowledges, have had an impact on his own music. As a child he was greatly influenced by artists such as Elvis Presley and often impersonated him from a young age. It incorporates sounds inspired by reggae, funk, R&B, hip hop, rock, among others. Jon Caramanica of The New York Times calls Mars "one of the most versatile and accessible singers in pop."

Mars is part of the trio of composers called The Smeezingtons, formed with Philip Lawrence and Ari Levine. He wrote lyrics for a dozen artists such as Sugababes, Adele, Flo Rida, Cee Lo Green and Taemin, a member of the group SHINee.
